

FATHERHOOD IS GOOD

In addition to women that are Pro-Choice, there are millions of men that are Pro-Choice, too. Men are supposed to be the providers and husbands to women. Where are the men today? They are in front of the TV playing video games or, they're at the clubs getting women pregnant and then leaving the woman to deal with it. It boggles the mind how a father can just up and leave his pregnant girlfriend. Understandably, the thought of responsibility is scary, but seriously fathers, this is your child, too (23 chromosomes are yours). Be a man and provide for your family! Sometimes life is hard. True. Why should your woman and child have to suffer alone why you ditch out on responsibility? The burden should fall you; not them.

Love doesn't exist in the bedroom if there is no love outside the bedroom. Do yourself a favor and commit to your woman (by marrying her). I know that this American culture is anti-man, anti-husband, pro-feminism, etc. I know that this culture teaches boys not to grow up and be lazy bums while their girlfriends provide for him and the kids. Be a man. Don't be a wimp like most of American males are. Manhood has to do with stepping up and doing what is right. There are too many fatherless homes. There is too much infidelity. American men are to blame for this (as are the media and laws). Be a man and raise your own son or daughter.

On a similar note, many women complain about their loser boyfriends not "stepping it up" for marriage or raising children. Just because a man is a "loser" doesn't give a woman the right to abort her child. That man is just as much a parent to that child as the mother is. Give the man a chance. If he ditches out on you, well, at least you did what was right. Any woman who keeps her baby should know that God will never leave that woman. God honors all sacrifice. He will be a father to the fatherless. He will provide for those who have nothing.

It's a tragedy for a pregnant woman to think she is completely alone in the world. No one is completely alone if the Church is doing her job. Indeed, the Church condemns premarital sex but the Church should never ignore a pregnant woman needing help. It's a tragedy that pregnant women have been brought up in unforgiving homes and unforgiving churches. The Church has been put in place to help those marginalized mothers, those troubled teenagers, those young women who don't know where else to turn. If an unmarried pregnant mom can't reach out to the Church, who can she reach out to? Any true Christian loves the Pre-Born and loves pregnant women, regardless of how they got pregnant. The Church should be there for fathers, too, who don't know what to do.

God is our Father who loves us, regardless of our mistakes. Fathers sometimes find themselves in difficult situation. It takes a real man to push through that adversity and do what is right. God should be our model for fatherhood: He gave us all He had to save us.
