

THE MARKETING OF MURDER

The womb is the most dangerous place in the world. It didn't always used to be. But since Roe v. Wade, it's the only place that an innocent human being can be murdered freely, legally and without restraint. Once a place of life, the womb has been turned into a war-zone. A woman's body has now been a cemetery for 60 million American babies since 1973. But, America isn't original in this. Every culture kills off its most helpless victims: babies. From the ancient Aztecs to modern day Americans, babies have always been dispensable. It's just that in modern day America, we don't even have to see the baby to kill it; we're so advanced that we can kill the baby inside the womb.

Babies are killed everyday and yet we keep voting in the same politicians who don't do anything to stop this holocaust. But, it's really not the politicians' responsibility to stop this; they were just voted in. It's the American people that is the problem. They vote in politicians that are just like them. And, because of that, blood is on America's hands.

Murder, on this kind of scale, can only be accomplished by a society that doesn't value life. This kind of holocaust could only have happened through the shrewd marketing of the Pro-Choice movement. How do you hide a holocaust this big? How do you brainwash Americans into believing that murdering your own baby is OK? Well, for one thing, the Pro-Choicers are very good with phrasing things. They use words and phrases to hide their twisted logic. These words and phrases have made the Pro-Choice movement palatable to Americans. That is why America has embraced Choice over Life.

Much propaganda, marketing and the use of large funds (from millions of selfish Pro-Choicers) has helped accomplish this holocaust. And, the Pro-Choice movement, at times, seem insurmountable. But, here's the thing: we have God on our side. The Pro-Choicers don't.

The purpose of marketing is to advertise your product or service as attractive so someone buys it. False advertising, on the other hand, is blatant deception of the public to buy your service. Abortionists fall under the category of "blatant deceptive false advertising". Everything abortionists offer never is followed through on. For example, abortionists says they care about pregnant women. If that was true, then where are they when the guilt of abortion hits their client? They say they are for womens' rights. Then, why do they support slavery of women to their sexual desires (and then take their money)? They say they offer life and peace. Where is the life and peace after a woman has had an abortion? They say they offer control. Where is the control after a baby is murdered in a woman's womb? Abortionists makes promises that they can never keep. They can't murder a baby in the womb and offer "peace" and "control". A dead baby will never tidy up one's life. In fact, it will unravel it.
